

Blue jays love acorns! They gather them for winter, often burying them as far as a mile away. Blue jays carry five acorns at once--two in their mouth and three in a special pouch in their throat. If the blue jays don't eat the acorns that winter, they grow into new oak trees.

